Death Scene Investigation — A Forensic Entomology Field Training Workshop

An optional hands on, one-day workshop on INSECT EVIDENCE/ENTOMOLOGY will be taught by Neal Haskell, PhD, Forensic Entomology Consultant at an off-site location. This workshop will be held on Thursday, March 23, 2017 following the From Cradle to Cane: Investigation of Crimes Against Vulnerable Victims conference at Charleston Southern University. Participants will assemble at the Gold Room for lecture then proceed to the field activity.

WORKSHOP INFORMATION Fee $225.00 (includes materials and BBQ dinner)

The purpose of this forensic workshop is to provide death scene investigators (coroners, medical examiners, crime scene technicians, & police investigators) with knowledge of entomological techniques used for recovering evidence from death scenes. Graphic slide presentation and case studies will supplement a team teaching format with lectures and hands-on field training.

Many observations of damage to corpses by insects have been made by pathologists and other investigators without the benefit of entomological assistance or knowledge of the insects and their unique behavior. This evidence can provide key points of substantiation of physical or testimonial evidence. The recognition, collection, documentation, preservation, and shipment of entomological evidence handled in a proper manner is of great importance to death scene investigators when the forensic entomologist is unavailable. Handling and shipment of specimens to entomological experts for analysis, identification, and interpretation will be covered, along with the proper equipment and materials for collecting insects. This workshop will be an introductory course of Forensic Entomology.
